VILAS SOUNDS CUCKOO NOTES

Thinks Criticism of Cleveland is Treason to the Great Republic.

NAUSEATING SYCOPHANCY

The Senator from Wisconsin Defends the President in a Speech More Remarkable for Its Servility Than for Declines to Recede from Its Protective Duties on Iron Ore and Coal.

WASHINGTON, July 28 OT until 2 o'clock today did the senate take up the question of agreeing to a further conference on the tariff till. When it did Mr. Vilas addressed the senate in a two hours' speech delivered off hand and with much oratorical effect. His speech was highly eulogistic of Presi-dent Cleveland whom he defended from the charges of duplicity and of the improper interference with legislation, made by Senator Gorman in his speech of Monday.

Mr. Viius reviewed the various tariff messages of the president, which he said, embraced no novelty with reference to coal and iron not familiar to his party friends. Could it be presumed, in view of these enunciations, that that distinguished man (Mr. Cleveland) could lay aside his views on tariff reform? Mr. Vilas then draw Mr. Gorman, metaphorically, over the coals for detailing private conversations with the president. There had been no direct testimony, he said, by Mr. Gorman or his witnesses, that the president had acted with duplicity. The senator from Arkansas, (Mr. Jones), one of Mr. Gorman's with nesses, bad said that he laid the 400 Mr. Morton is now in France, but is amendments to the tariff bill before expected home in three or four weeks. the president and now the president was accused of having agreed to all of them. How could the president agree to all of those detailed amendments? How many senators could give a detaile account of these amendment and their effect on the business of the country? The president had merely considered these things generally, devoting his at tention and his remarks to the great principle involved in free coal and this great question and the sepator from Arkansas answered truly that on every occasion such was the fact. Who could say that there had been a lack of openness on the part of the president or that he did not believe that this bill before its perfection would carry free coal and free trop ore?

On this single statement of the senator from Arkansas, he would be content to let rest this charge of duplicity on the part of that great officer of the government. The president had not endeavored to infringe on the prerogatives of the senate and not with dupliefty but with the same open manner that had always characterized him He had said to the chairman of the ways and means committee that he hoped that the result might be accomplished in conference with reference to

Who would gainsay that the president had not as much right to give his views on this question as freely after his conversation with the senator from Arkansas as he had before, Mr. Vilas maintained that the president's letter was not an executive document. It was a personal letter and the measure of its personality might be guaged by a consideration of its contents. During these remarks Mr. Vilus became vehement. In thunderous terms of accentuation he cried out that the sena tor from Maryland was apparently of the epinion that he had the right to direct the president but that the president had no right to express his views.

CLEVELAND AS A DEMI-GOD. Mr. Vilas spoke of Mr. Cleveland as 'the great first citizen of the republic. and as the representative of the paional honor and declared, with solemcity and vehemency, that to assail Grover Cleveland was to strike at the republic, that to insult him was to affront every good citizen, and that to stab him was to sting the heart of every true American." In conclusion he withdrew his motion of Friday to strike out the additional discriminating duty of i of a cent a pound on sugar and favored Mr. Gray's motion to insist and to consent to further conference. He did this, he said, because he was a strict party man and desired to be in accord with his Democratic brethren. And he expressed the hope that out of the conference would come a measure far better than that that had already passed the senate.

Mr. Vilas was followed by Mr. Stewart, who criticised the president's let-ter as an invasion of the legislative power such as had cost Charles I his head. At the close of the debate a vote was taken on Mr. Hill's motion to recede from the duty of 40 cents a ton on iron ore and on coal. There were only six votes, including his own, cast in favor of it as against sixty-five in the negative. Mr. McCaffrey withdraw his motion in favor of a modified sugar bounty for 1894. Mr. Quay had airendy withdrawn his motion to have sugar put on the free list and the only question left was Mr. Quay's motion to insist and to agree to the further conference asked by the house. As the vote was about to be taken Mr. Vilas' motion to recede from the one-eighth cent a pound discrimination duty on sugar was renewed by Mr. Wasbburn. A point of order was made against it and that point was discussed without a conclusion being reached until 5.45, when the senate adjourned, the national capital. A bill to authoriga one of the street car sys-tems in this city to extend its lines and change its motive power has passed both branches of con-gress, and today the conference report on the bill was agreed to in the house. It requires the company to equip and operate its lines with an underground system within a period of two years, under heavy penalties for failure. It was stated in debate that this was one of the most important measures ever passed by congress, as the demonstra tion that the underground system can be successfully operated will compel a change of power of thousands of miles of electric roads in the United States. The day's session was devoted largely to the consideration of business reported from the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, and eigh its Sense-Nevertheless, the Senate | teen bills were passed. THE GOVERNOR ON THE STRIKE.

Before Leaving Harrisburg He Gives Out Some Information.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 26 - Before leaving on a trip to the great lakes to day Governor Pattison made public some correspondence regarding the present situation in the coke regions of ennsylvania. Two letters were from F. Price, general manager of the Cambria Iron company, and Thomas Lynch, general manager of the Frick company, at Uniontown, complained that large bodies oke of idle men were murching up and own the counties of Westmoreland nd Fayette, armed, ostensibly to atend mass meetings, but really to inimidate men who are working at the various plants, all this in violation of free coal and iron, as he had a perfect he governor's proclamation.

Governor Pattison wired for information and was later advised that the sheriffs had taken measures to suppress the riotons strikers. Saveral miners have written the governor that they carry arms, but for their own protection and not for the purpose of breaking the peace.

AUGUST OUTPUT 2,500,000 TONS

After an All-Day Session in Gotham It is Decided to Curb the Marketing of the Precious Black Diamonds at Cut Rates, but to Make No Change with him. in Prices-Notable Victory for the Individual Operators.

Special to the Scranton Tribune NEW YORK, July 26. HAT threatened to develop into a genuine crisis in the anthra cite coal trade was happily averted today, after a prong which every argument was brought to bear, pro and con, in relation to the August allotment. The conservative forces proved the stronger, however, and it was finally agreed to restrict the output for August to 2 500,000 tons, of which amount 1,350,000 tons are to be produced before Aug. 18, No change was made in prices. Tois is a substantial victory for the individual operators, whose associa-tion, largely through the instrumen-tality of Thomas H. Watkins, of Scranton, Pa., had carnestly sought to avert the ruinous rate-cutting believed to be inevitable had the large carrying corporations used their coal simply as feeders to their traffic receipts, independent of its intrinsic value value. The acquiescence of the Reading Coal and Iron company to the restrictive policy was largely brought about through the indefatigable efforts of Mr. Watkins and his fellow officers in the Anthraeite Operators' association. President Harris was brought round to a comprehension of the necessity of husbanding the resources of the Reading mines at a time when, had they been freely poured into a weakened market, it would, it is believed, have precipitated an era of circular shading nurtful to all the interests of the trade. The report that the Lackswanna and Lehigh Valley companies were among the opponents to a restricting policy originated in the fact that these companies simply proposed to meet competitive cuts. They were willing to assent to a uniform and genuine restricion; but were unwilling to be made the subjects of attack by companies not loyal to the agreement. The outcome of today's meeting will, it is thought, strengthen the trade and enable it to approach the autumn with every prospect of profitable and healthy activities.

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., July 26.-Wallace Burt, the half-breed Indian, was fall here at 10 53 o'clock this morning or the murder of the Rightley couple The execution was successful in every detail. The condemned man walked from his cell to the gallows in his stocking feet and ascended the steps unassisted.

After the noose had been placed around his neck he made a brief speech, but did not refer to the crime. He said he had made his peace with God and that he was a soldier of the cross. He never flinched while he was being manacled, and closely watched every movement of the sheriff. He recognized ex-Sheriff Beans in the crowd and talked to him for a couple of minntes from the scaffold.

The drop fell at 10 53 and in thirteen minutes he was pronounced dead by the physician. The body hung almost perfectly still, the only motion being a slight twitching of the feet. His neck was broken.
